

Sure, you're in charge. But are you in control?

There's a reason you're the one who gets all the questions, problems, and frantic "It's gotta go up today" appeals. You're the one in charge. But, the truth is, everyone wants a piece of the action. Keeping control is turning into your worst nightmare.

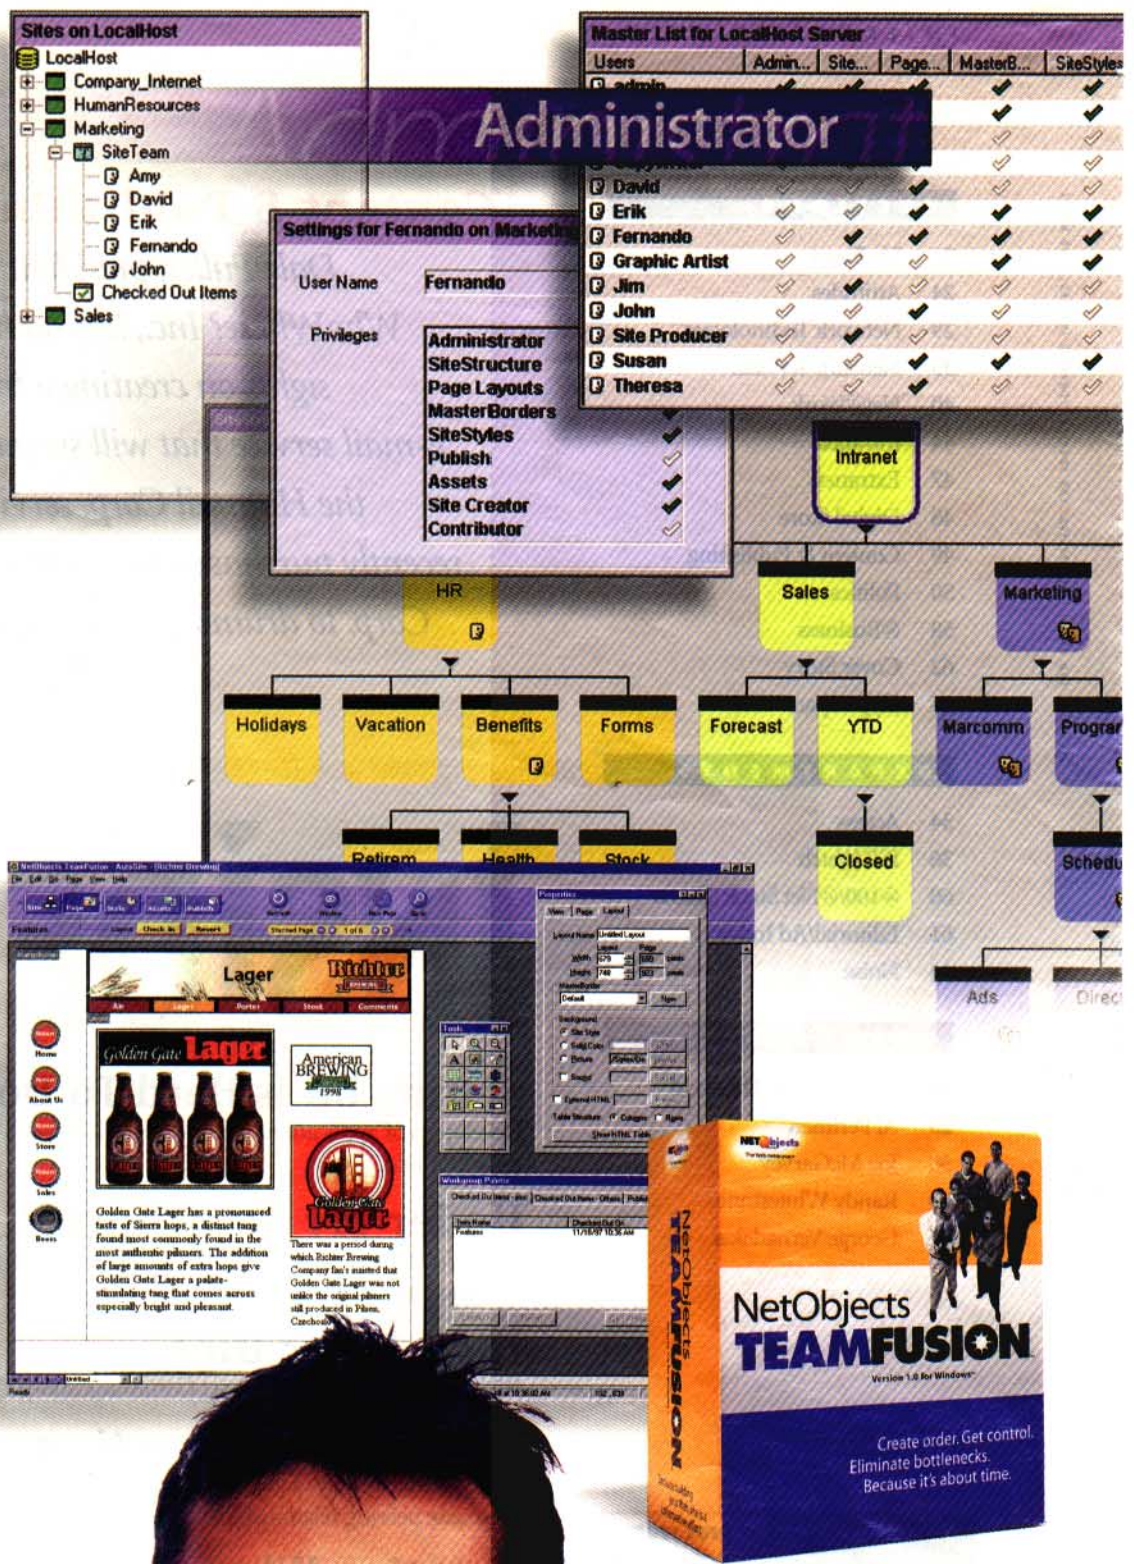

NetObjects TeamFusion™ puts the power to manage the whole convoluted mess back in your hands. With NetObjects TeamFusion, you decide who gets to change what. You make sure that the site has a consistent look and feel. And you eliminate the inevitable production bottlenecks by letting the folks from HR, sales, and other departments submit their own routine changes. Or, give them a site to develop, update, and maintain on their own—under your watchful eye, of course.

Whether you're producing an external or internal Web site, NetObjects TeamFusion gives you control over the entire site building process from start to finish.

So let NetObjects TeamFusion bring some order to your little corner of the Web. It'll save you time, money—and your sanity.
